

Bethanian 1971

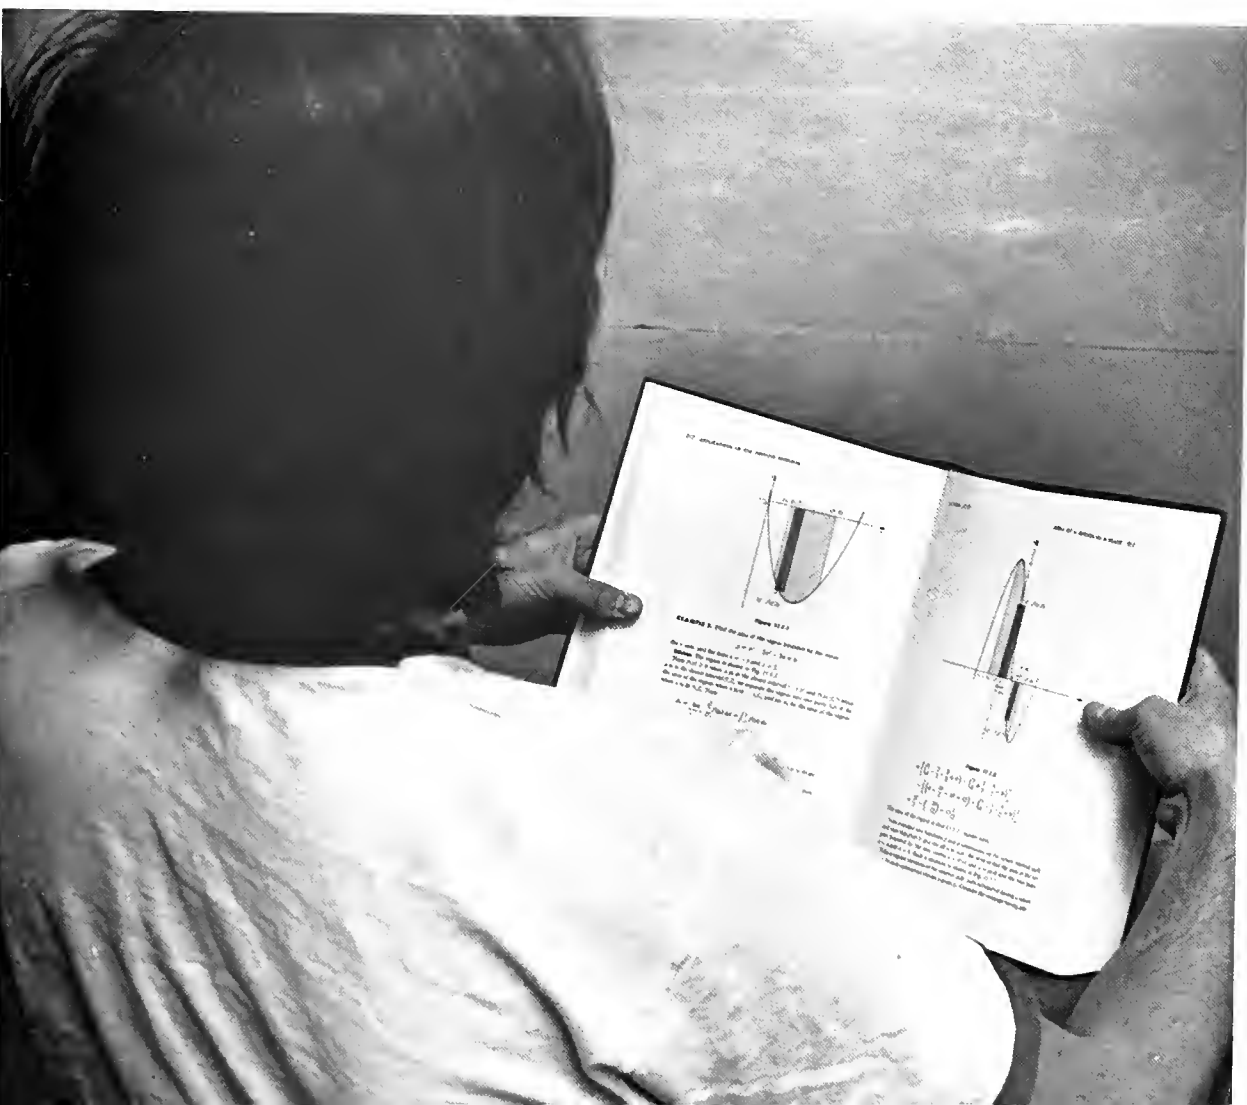

Life. It begins so simply. Like a flower on a warm spring day. So Innocently. Like a baby's first smile. But years change things. There are signs that must be obeyed. Shoes to fill. There are also carefree times. But when we sit and look around the world seems to be crumbling.

There are ways to camouflage the crumbling. Books are a good escape. Studying by yourself makes the world have two inhabitants—you and the book. And that's good. Today, being out of touch with reality occasionally is a needed experience. And the lessons learned from books can enable us to accept life as it is a little more easily.

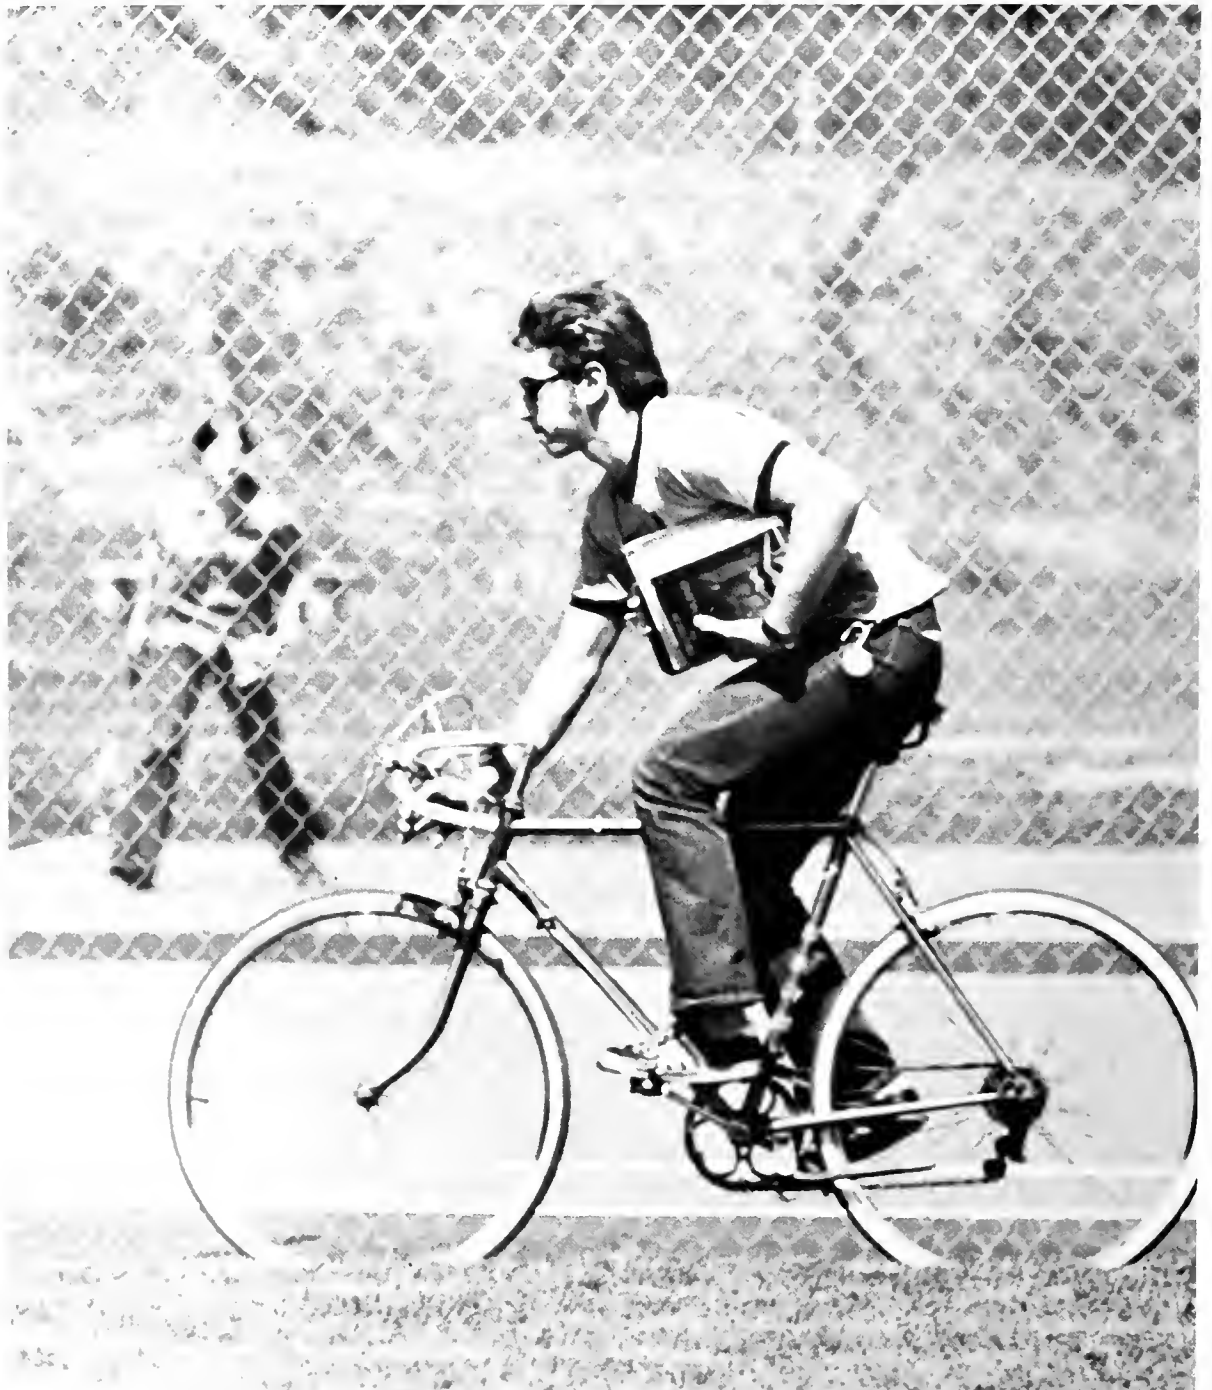

Doing life's daily chores can sometimes seem cumbersome. But these things have meaning. Everyone doing his small part is what life is. And we constantly lose little battles. But losing a lot makes winning more rewarding. Life is a struggle for little rewards.

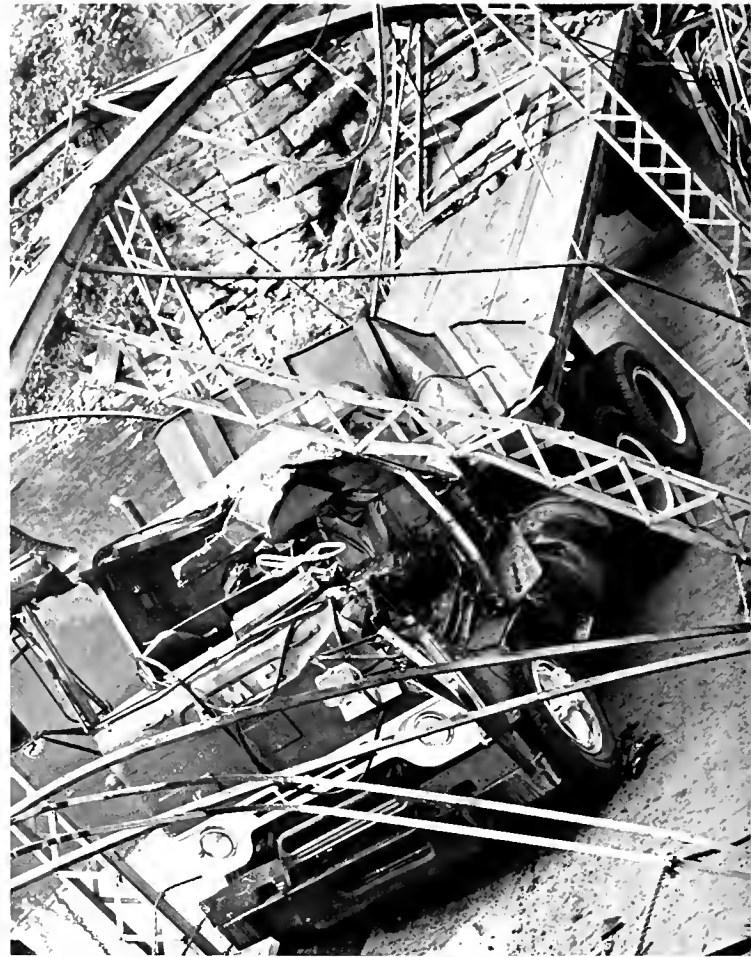

Ride on

We all need to escape. Lately, bikes seem to be the way. What a feeling. Wind blowing you in the face. Every bump jarring your entire body. You seem so much in control of your destiny. You belong to yourself when you're riding. If only all of life was like this. But, alas, it isn't.

There comes a time when reality must be faced. Of course there's pollution. And drugs. And injustices. And meaningless destruction. Work within the system, they say. But who are they and what can be done. What can one person do? We love America, for now anyway, but things need to be changed. And where is America? It's getting so hard to see nowadays.

Everything isn't always black and white. Conversations do have meaning. They reflect the different perceptions of life. A man's music is his art, and it, too, can be colorful. Live for today is an easy philosophy. But is it valid? Only time will tell. And it usually remains silent. As silent as barren branches on a windless day.

We sometimes realize a need to think. To ponder over what we know or believe we know. To leave the present for a moment to contemplate the future, to reflect upon the past. A chance to refresh our views, reaffirm our beliefs, renew our hopes.

Shoes Should Be Seen, Not Heard

Wearing shoes is fun.
You can be different, nobody cares.
You can dive into some boots.
Boots with buckles are big.
The bigger the buckle the better
The brown or black boot.
You can slip into some sandals.
Or saddle shoes, or loafers,
Or red or blue or white sneakers.
Shoes can describe their wearer.
Boots signify a pungent aroma lover.
White bucks and you play in the band.
No shoes typify a callous person.
Shoes once were sturdy, comfortable.
But they were ugly, squeaky. So silly.
Shoes are to be seen, not heard.

Homecoming means something different to everybody. To students, it means a chance to get dressed up, get a date, and do some dancing.

To recent graduates, Homecoming affords a chance to come back and see if the college has existed without them, to brag to professors, and to have another good time with a fraternity brother or sorority sister.

To old alumni, Homecoming is more like a ritual. Not really a time to visit today's students or professors, or to see what new building is being razed, but a yearly event. A time to visit old friends, friends they see only at Homecoming. A time to continue last year's conversation, a conversation that will and 10 or 20 years from now. Homecoming belongs to the classes of the 1930's, '40's and '50's. It's the way it should be. It's the way it was at Homecoming 1970.

Middle East Conference

A conference in early October brought to Bethany students a taste of Middle East food and political problems.

Coming only a week after Egyptian President Nasser's death, the conference dealt with the future of the United Arab Republic and the entire Middle East.

A dinner kicked-off the festivities, highlighted by a belly dancer and an oriental band.

Guest speakers included James B. Pearson, U.S. senator; Fayez Sayegh, a member of the Kuwait delegation to the U.N.; Zvi Brosh, Israeli minister of information; and Phyllis Ein-Dor, chairman of the Pittsburgh Israeli Student Organization.

Several lectures were given, a student panel viewed the different sides of the conflict, and a final conference was held, bringing together differentiating views.

Dr. and Mrs. Thurston, Mr. Lester, Dr. Schweinfurth and Rawi Tabbah were in charge of planning the conference.

CLEW Topic: Incarnation

Christian Living Emphasis Week featured one of the most dynamic and outspoken lecturers heard on campus in several years.

Dr. Sam Keen, professor of philosophy of the person at Prescott College, held the attention of the capacity crowds with his radical views on the human body and spirituality. He gave three speeches: "Portrait of a Cosmopolitan Lover", "Some American Bodies", and "The Fully Carnal Man".

The theme of CLEW was "Incarnation: Reflection of the Spirituality of the Body".

Co-Chairmen of the event were Rico Martinelli and Janet Hermsmeir.

The numerous faces of Dr. Sam Keen are demonstrated in the above photos.

Dramatics

She Stoops to Conquer

“Who’s Afraid of Virginia Woolf?”

The Drama Department's first semester play was a shattering drama by Edward Albee. It is the story of four people on the campus of a small New England College. The boisterous Martha, portrayed by Linda White, plays her social games on her timid husband George (Jeffrey Thresher), Nick (Jim Hatherly), and Honey (Donna Blocksidge). After much bickering and outwitting, Martha learns that the fun and games are on her. She hysterically whimpers. “Who’s Afraid of Virginia Woolf?”

“I am George . . . I am.”

“I Am George . . . I Am . . .”

Bethany's version of Peter Weiss' Marat/Sade starred Jeffrey Thresher, Gerry Siegel, Nancy Napola, Marc Harshman and Mark Stevenson. It was directed by Herbert Drinnon and John Cray.

The Spring Musical, "The Gondoliers", was directed by David Judy and George Hauptfuerer. It starred Lee Smedley, Linda Irvine and Steve Ratcliffe.

The Alpha Sigs give welcome to new pledges

Bid day is probably the most rowdy day in campus life. Fraternities and sororities wait all day to find out which freshman they will get. Freshmen go to class with anticipation, hoping their bid was accepted. Then, at four o'clock, mayhem breaks loose. Cold Duck and beer bottles are opened. Frosh men rush out to join in the wild celebration already in progress. The partying

Greeks and new Greeks parade up the hill, waiting for freshmen women to receive their bids. Soon they come rushing out, breaking for Harlan and Morlan Halls. Snowballs cannot stop them. They are now sorority pledges. A few fall in the mud and try to drag others in with them. The party continues until someone realizes that its dinner time. The Greeks disperse, heading for a Slater Supper. Rush is over, thank God.

Chicago came to Bethany November 18, and no one was disappointed. Playing all their biggies, they proved themselves one of the top groups musically in the country. The seven piece band has a sound that is distinctly "Chicago" in sound and their lyric is meaningful, too. We were impressed.

Entertainment

Hey, daddio, I mean, like, the Sha Na Na were coolsville here in Hicksville. Like, they were hipsville. Bee Bop Shu Bah. I mean, I ain't heard songs like that since me and Betty Sue danced to Elvis. It made me think, like man, whatever happened to Conway Twitty? Bee Bop Shu Da Da.

Footballers Record 7th Winning Season in a Row

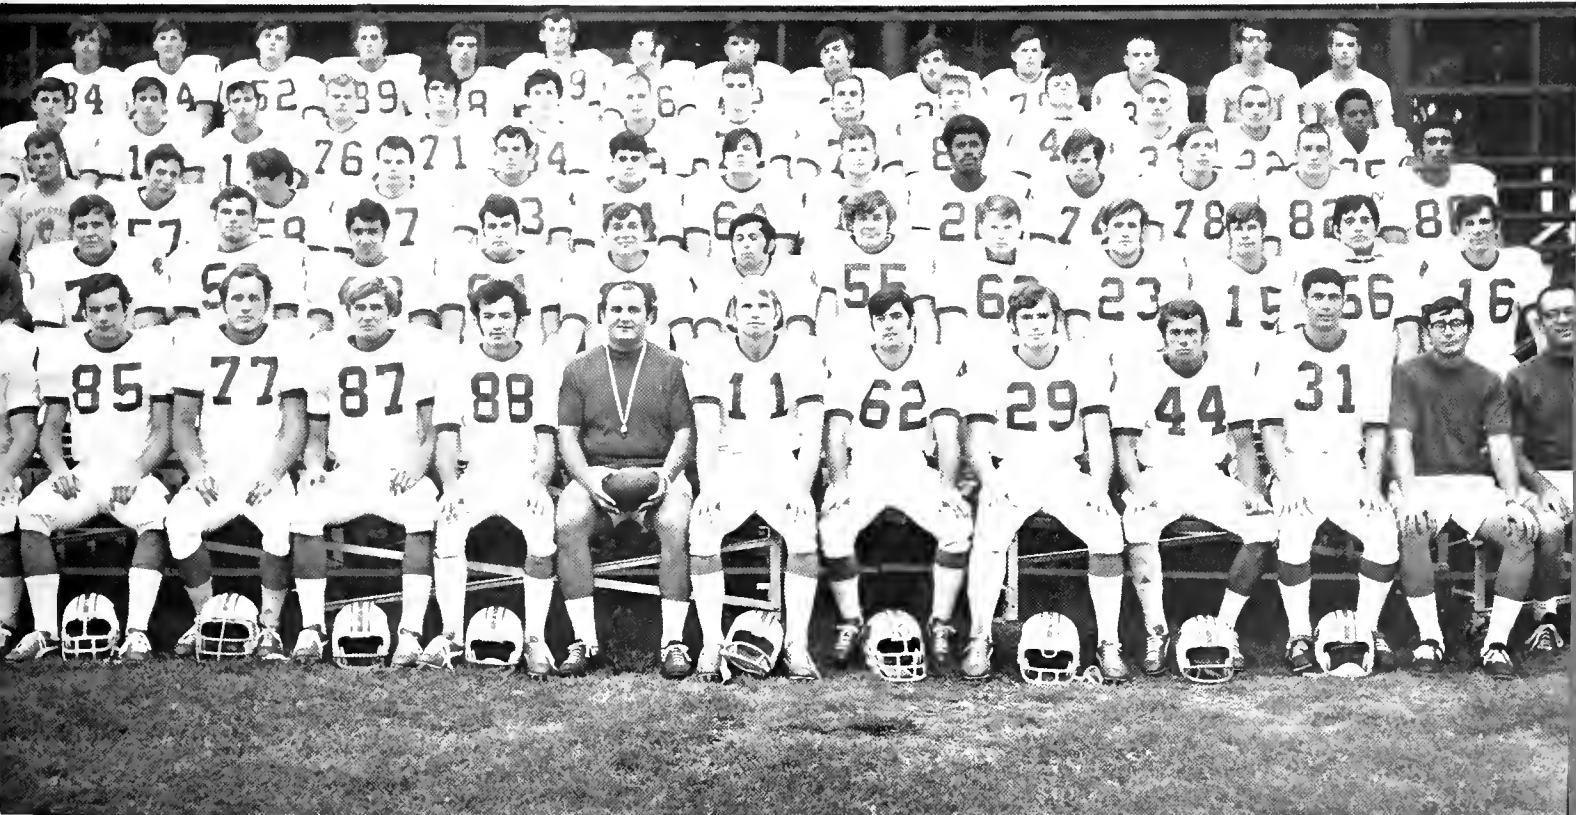

Dan Vogt starts out after taking handoff.

Marinoff tries to outmaneuver a John Carroll lineman.

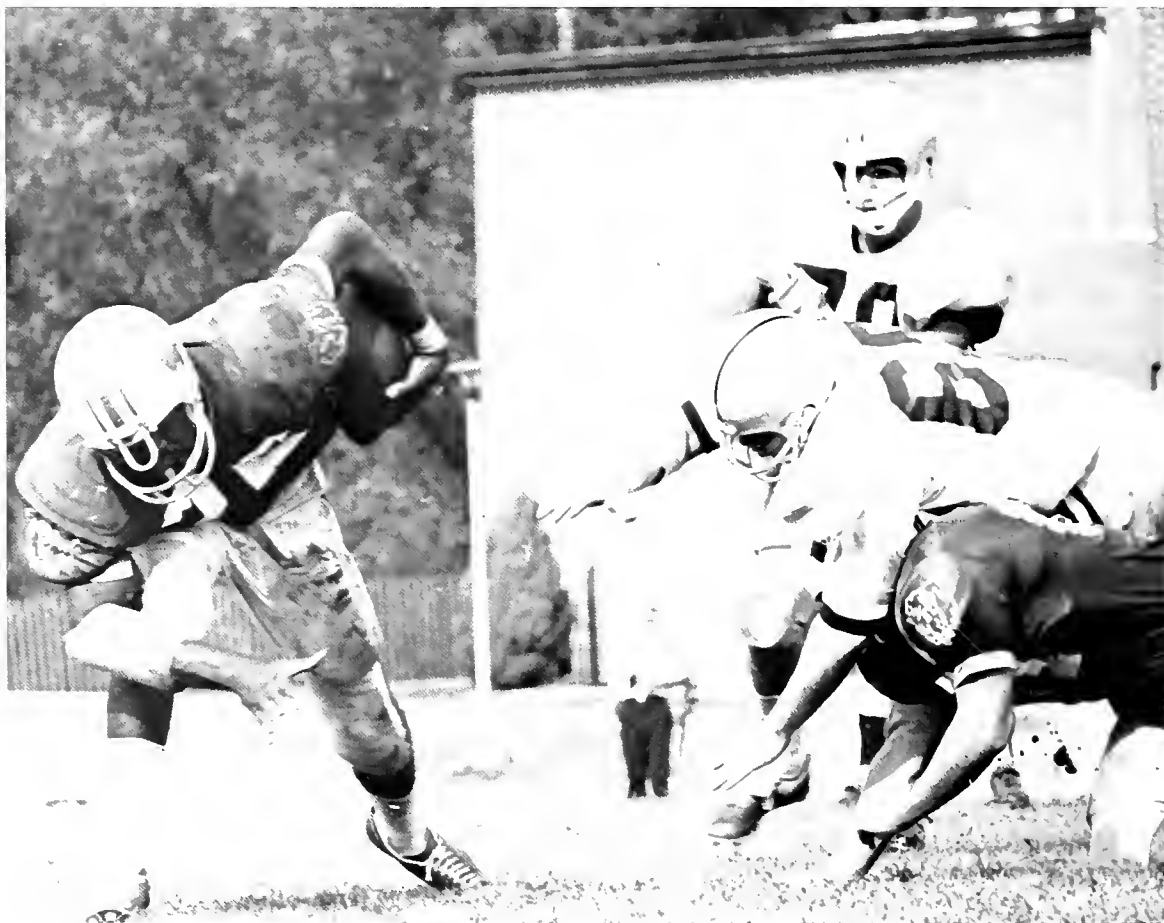

The 1970 version of the Bethany football team finished second in the President's Athletic Conference with a 4-2 record. A mid-season injury to star Sophomore Demrey Brandon, a bruising, tackle-breaking runner, all but ended the season for the offensive unit. Marty Marinoff, sophomore quarterback, completed only 38% of his passes. Senior Pat Mauro was the only offensive spark after Brandon's injury.

The defensive unit, however, came to life in the second half of the season, limiting the final four opponents to an average of six points a game. Standouts such as Chuch Carpeta, Sam Radakovich and Bill Torowicz led the Bisons defensively. Brandon gained 576 yards in five games, and led the conference in rushing. Swickard, Carpeta, Radakovich, and Brandon were named to the All-PAC team.

Hubbard, Harriers Have Winning Season

The Bethany cross country squad, which has dwindled to a handful of faithful runners, managed a winning record for the first time in several years with a 4-3 showing.

Despite the fine effort during the season, the Harriers finished a dismal sixth in the PAC championships.

John Hubbard, a junior, was defeated only twice during the regular season. He set a Bethany track record against Geneva with a time of 21:13. He has been the top runner on the squad for three years.

The big meet of the season was an upset of a tough John Carroll team. Besides Hubbard, other consistent performances were turned in by Russ Swank, co-captain Chuck Schieb, and freshman Bill Consilos.

Early during the season it was feared that the sport was headed for extinction, but the determined effort and work of a small team showed otherwise.

Championship in Third Year of League Competition

After only three short years of trying, the Bethany soccer squad captured its first PAC championship. The booters finished with a 5-1-2 record, their only loss being against nationally-ranked Alderson Broaddus. The outstanding game in a season of great ones was the 6-2 shellacking of rival Washington and Jefferson.

Gaining All-PAC honors were Jack Morgan, Rich Cox, John Jenkins, Rich Siconolfi, and Frank Christy. Morgan, a four year starter, averaged 20 saves a game. Cox, all conference for three years, was outstanding at the full-back position. Jenkins did a fine job at left halfback for the Bisons, scoring two goals, while Christy, a freshman, scored five. Charlie Haydar, the Tanzanian Terror, led the team in scoring with seven goals.

In conference play, the Bisons maintained a 3-1 ratio in goals scored to goals allowed. The championship proved a fitting reward for Seniors Morgan, Cox, Joe Studick, Bill McKee and Lester Roberts, who were the nucleus of the team four years ago when soccer was only a club sport at Bethany.

The 1970-71 wrestling team ended a dismal season by placing sixth out of six teams in the conference championship tournament. The matmen were one and 10 during the regular season matches.

First year Coach John Hibbert's squad managed a victory over Carnegie-Mellon. Lightweight Ralph Leslie and Heavyweight Dan Swickard pinned their opponents in that match.

Freshman Mike McKay won the conference title at 190 pounds with flawless wrestling at Allegheny, site of the championships.

Senior Captain Bill Taczak ended a four year career by placing second in the 134 pound class. Taczak was undefeated in his first five matches, ending the season with a 7-3 record.

Freshman Jeff Stolz placed fourth in the championships in the 142 pound class.

Coach Hibbert, losing only Taczak and Steve Cocumelli, looks for a more productive team next season.

Bison Nine Finishes in Third

The baseball team with a 6-5 record in league games, wound up third in the PAC. Allegheny was first.

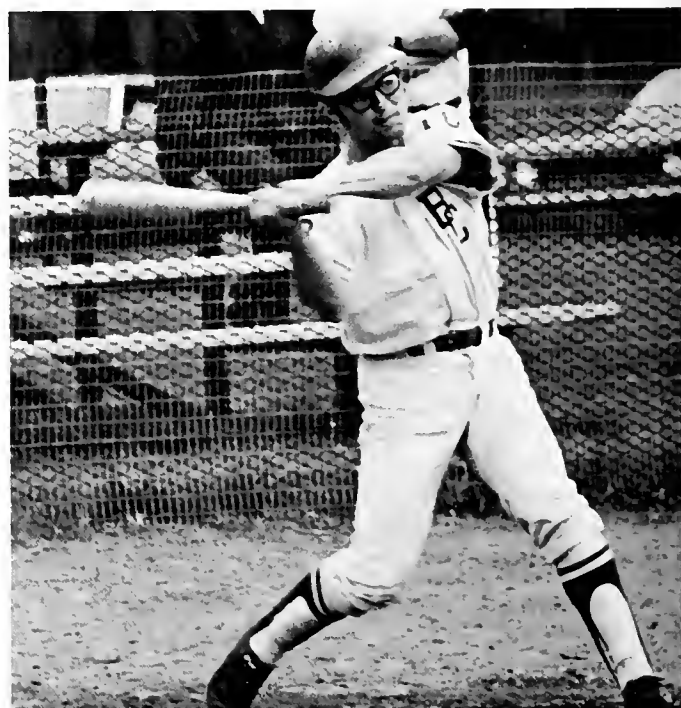

The Bisons started the season with a non-league road-trip. They lost four straight to the teams of Randolph Macon, Bridgewater, and Hampden-Sydney.

Senior Denny Robinson, a former All-NAIA pitcher, had a somewhat mediocre season. He won three games, lost two, while his earned run average was a quite respectable 1.70.

Larry Sadler was the leading hitter on the team with an average of about .400. Mark Hicks and Mark Fedak batted around .300. The team average was .277.

Errors hurt the nine throughout the year. In one stretch, they committed 22 errors in four games.

Coach Skip Applin will lose Pat Mauro, a three year starter, Joe Studick, a two year man, Doug Burnett, Bill Torowicz, and Robinson to graduation.

The Woolery House was second, copping firsts in basketball and volleyball. They had 270.5 total points.

Enthusiasm and interest was high among all the fraternities, making competition keen. Playoffs in several sports were needed as two or three teams were tied for first place.

Dedication: Miss Pearl Mahaffey

What does it mean to be great? Is greatness popularity—status among peers? Or is greatness power—the ability to manipulate people?

Can greatness be judged by material wealth, physical strength, or mental prowess? Is a great person a figure in history, a person immortalized in books?

Pearl Mahaffey was great. Her greatness, though, was not due to popularity and power, money and might, or intellect and immortality. Hers was, as Dr. Gresham said in his eulogy Sunday, a “modest greatness.”

If any one trait characterized Miss Mahaffey's greatness, it was her tremendous capacity to love. What else but love, love of people, love of knowledge, love of life, could motivate a person to spend a lifetime in service to Bethany College, young people, and the pursuit of knowledge?

Greatness characterized by love, and not by power or wealth, is rare, but enduring. Bethany College was fortunate to have it, as manifested in Pearl Mahaffey, for so long.

Remember her example.

Closing

We realize that others share our hopes, dreams, and aspirations. Understanding others helps us better understand ourselves. Talking with someone makes what we feel inside seem more real. And it helps us gain faith in ourselves.

Being active helps us obtain goals, whether it be winning awards, getting exercise, enjoyment, or just feeling like a part of the whole. All these things are important.

And in the end, all we have accomplished seems sometimes futile, and our hopes fade away like smoke. The shoes we've filled weren't really worth filling. The name we made others remember becomes forgotten in a while. And we walk along and think "Was it all worth it?" And then we realize the answer. All things considered —Yes, it was.

Final Note

This year has a lot of work especially when you are proud that you may have been to do most of the work yourself. I felt that need I did my best.

I would like to thank Gene Burke and Dave Hobe for always telling me to get the damn thing done. I would like to thank my wife for her constant interest in my making this effort successful.

My main purpose in this job was to complete the book by deadline time so that its readers can still remember the year soon after its over. Well, it is done on time. Amen.
